Edward Moldenhauer releases sixth installment in book series

New book tells continuing adventures of Frederick von Wigglebottom in Marrakech, Morocco

LITITZ, Pa. – Author Edward Moldenhauer was inspired to write “Spin the Globe: The Incredible Adventures of Frederick von Wigglebottom - Mysteries of Marrakech” (published by Trafford Publishing) for him to continue the chronicling of the bedtime stories he once told his children.

The sixth book in the series, this volume tells the continuing story of Frederick as he meets Yasmine and Azerwal and explores Marrakech, Morocco, where he learns about the history, people, sites and animals of this North African nation, the diversity of the souk and Djemaa el-Fna (bazaar), the Atlas Mountains, the Imazighen (Berber) and all about the Arab people and the customs of the Islamic faith.

“The character of Frederick von Wigglebottom is meant not only to entertain children, but also to use his adventures as an opportunity to broaden their horizons, instill a desire for them to want to learn even more and for them to become good citizens of our planet,” Moldenhauer explains. “Also, diversity is extremely lacking in children’s literature and Frederick’s stories attempt to fill this void.”

Through the publication of “Spin the Globe: The Incredible Adventures of Frederick von Wigglebottom,” Moldenhauer hopes to instill a desire for young children to learn and implant a seed for them to experience the many facets of the world. He also hopes they will realize that people from different backgrounds, heritages and cultures can live in harmony and interact as friends.

About the Author

Edward Moldenhauer is a retired United States Navy pharmacist and military intelligence analyst. While having been published in several professional journals and co-writing “The History of Pharmacy in the United States Navy,” his true passion is honing up on “Ed’s Useless Trivia” to baffle friends and foe alike and to teach his children, Nicole and Eric, about every topic imaginable, sometimes to their chagrin. He currently lives in Lititz, Pennsylvania with his wife, Jo Ann, their children and dogs, Freckles and Cocoa. When he’s not watching history shows or reading, he enjoys the outdoors, adventure races, cooking delicious meals for his family and being out in the fresh air. He is also a member of the Society of Children’s Book Writers and Illustrators.

Trafford Publishing, an Author Solutions, LLC, author services imprint, was the first publisher in the world to offer an “on-demand publishing service,” and has led the independent publishing revolution since its establishment in 1995. Trafford was also one of the earliest publishers to utilize the Internet for selling books. More than 10,000 authors from over 120 countries have utilized Trafford’s experience for self publishing their books.
